All infantry are mounted as 3 rank troops. Division/Brigade commander rating: Poor. Staff rating: Incompetent. Russian infantry had a reputation for being very steady & sustaining significant casualties. When calculating the percentage of casualties for the purpose of determining adverse Morale Test modifiers, it is suggested that players use a base battalion size that is increased by 50%. That is a 12 figure infantry battalion would be counted as an 18 figure battalion when determining morale. Russian Jagers were not always able to skirmish effectively. For each brigade of Russians Jagers roll 1D10. On a 8, 9, or 10 the Jagers may skirmish.

MEXICAN-AMERICAN WAR 1846-48

The basing system is slightly different for the Mexican-American War. This is done so as to have maximum compatibility with other rules systems. In this system, the ground scale remains 1" = 35 yds, but each figure will now represent 33 men. Each infantry stand will be 1" by ¾" & will contain 3 figures. Cavalry is mounted 2 figures per stand. Each cavalry stand should be 1" by ¾" or 1" by 1". Artillery should be mounted with 1 gun figure on a 1" by 1" stand, representing 2 actual guns. Each stand should have 1 or 2 artillery crew figures.

One could use the regular Old Trousers basing system. To do so one must only remember that infantry of armies in this war were normally deployed in 2 ranks rather than 3. American battalions normally had 10 companies while Mexican battalions had 8 companies. Hence a typical Mexican infantry battalion would have 14 figures. One could mount these 2 per stand on 7 stands per battalion & closely approximate the typical battalion organization. Each stand with 2 figures would be 1" by ½". American battalions would have 18 figures mounted 2 per stand on 9 stands. One could fudge a little & give both Mexican & American battalions 2 extra figures so that one would have 8 stands per Mexican battalion & 10 stands per American battalion.
